

SOMALI

GENERAL STANDARD

The Somali is a semi-longhaired cat of Abyssinian type, medium build, firm, lithe and muscular. It is an alert, active cat and when standing it gives an impression of being on tiptoes. The medium long, sculptured coat is soft, dense, resilient and distinctly ticked. Males are generally larger than females.

HEAD: A medium, slightly rounded wedge without flat planes; the brow, cheek and profile lines all showing a gentle contour. There is a slight rise from the bridge of the nose to a broad forehead, with good width between the ears, with a shallow indentation forming the muzzle, which should have no evidence of snipyness or a whisker pinch. In profile, the skull is to show a gentle curve, flowing over the head into an arched neck. The head should have ample length to be in proportion to the rest of the cat.

EARS: Relatively large, moderately pointed, broad and cupped at the base, set wide apart and neither too high nor too low. They are tilted slightly forward as though the cat is listening, to give an alert expression, are well furnished, have a thumbprint and are preferably tufted on the tips.

EYES: Almond-shaped, neither round nor oriental, set well apart. They are large, bright and expressive and accentuated by the fine, darker line of the lid encircled by a light coloured area.

NOSE: Medium in length and moderately broad in proportion with the head. The bridge is to be gently contoured, with no straight lines or flat planes.

CHEEKS: Gently contoured to follow the line of the head. Allowance should be made for jowls in adult males.

JAWS: Gently rounded, not sharply pointed, pinched or square.

CHIN: Firm and rounded. In profile, of good depth and in a vertical line with the tip of the nose.

NECK: Medium in length, slightly arched, elegant and well-balanced.

BODY: Of medium length, lithe and graceful, but showing well-developed muscular strength without coarseness. The cat is solid to the feel and the rib cage is rounded with no evidence of flat sides. The flanks are reasonably level without tuck-up. Proportion and general balance are to be desired more than mere size.

The Somali appears to be a slightly heavier build than the Abyssinian due to the difference in coat.

LEGS: Deceptively well muscled, relatively long and slim.

PAWS: Neat, oval and compact.

TAIL: Thicker at the base, proportionately long and tapering, carrying a full, feathery plume. A whip is undesirable.

FAULTS/ PENALTIES

REFER TO GENERAL LIST COVERING ALL BREEDS, PLUS:

PENALISE:

- Should not be Oriental in type.
- Insufficient or incorrect ticking.
- Cold or grey tones in the coat of non-silver varieties.
- Rufous tones in Silvers
- Too strong a broken necklace.
- Belly spots on adults.
- Incorrect coat texture.
- Lack of pigmentation around the eyes.
- Odd or incorrect paw pad colour.
- Whisker pinch.

WITHHOLD:

- Distinct bars or rings on legs or tail.
- Unbroken necklace.
- White anywhere other than under chin, near nostrils or upper throat, except in Silvers. This includes lockets.
- Incorrect undercoat colour over a major part of the body.

COAT AND COLOUR

COAT LENGTH AND TEXTURE: Coat is of medium length on the body, giving a full-coated appearance, except over the shoulders, where there is a slightly shorter, closer-lying coat. Preference is given to a full ruff and breeches. Coat may have two or three bands of ticking, except on the belly and inside of forelegs. Texture is very soft, extremely fine and has a lustrous sheen. The thick, fine, double coat gives a feeling of density.

COAT PATTERN: Ticking is to be distinct and even, with dark coloured bands contrasting with lighter coloured bands on the hair shafts. The undercoat is clear to the roots and complements the surface colour, with no coldness or grey tones. Any spinal shading is to be of the deeper colour. Preference is given to cats unmarked on the undersides, chest and legs. Darker hair colour should extend from between the toes to well up the back of the hind legs, preferably to the hocks, also showing as a solid tip at the extreme end of the tail. The tail is without rings.

There is an "M" on the head between the eyes and ears. Pencillings extend from the eyes and brows and there is cheekbone shading, with dots and shading on whisker pads.

COAT COLOUR: Deeper colour shades are preferred, however intensity of ticking is not to be sacrificed for depth of colour. Hair tips are to be the darkest colour. The colour around the nostrils, under the chin and upper throat is to be lighter, but of a tint to harmonise with the belly, chest and forelegs. In the Silver group, high grade silver is most desirable.

EYE RIMS AND NOSE LEATHER: Appropriate to and specified in individual coat colours. Eye rims are to have a line of darker colour around them.

PAW PADS: Appropriate to and specified in individual coat colours.

EYE COLOUR: In a range from deep gold, gold, hazel or green, with the more richness and depth of colour the better. Applicable to all coat colours.
